

Technical Education Series

Resources & Live Discussions with MathWorks

Wondering what MATLAB & Simulink can do for your online teaching? Looking for classroom-ready resources that can be immediately deployed in your course?

Over the coming months MathWorks Educational Customer Success Engineers will look at the future of teaching. Each session will have an open discussion regarding common challenges in teaching foundational university courses and show you how to address them. All of these events will be in English.

After each session you will receive a Jump Starter Package containing resources so you can get started straight away. Our engineers will be available to answer your questions at the 'Office Hours' sessions, which will take place one week following on from each event.

Please feel free to invite your colleagues as well.

We hope to see you there. Register here.
